

Full System Testing

The following tests were performed to verify system functionality.

Test 1 – Create Record

A new poem was created using the client interface.

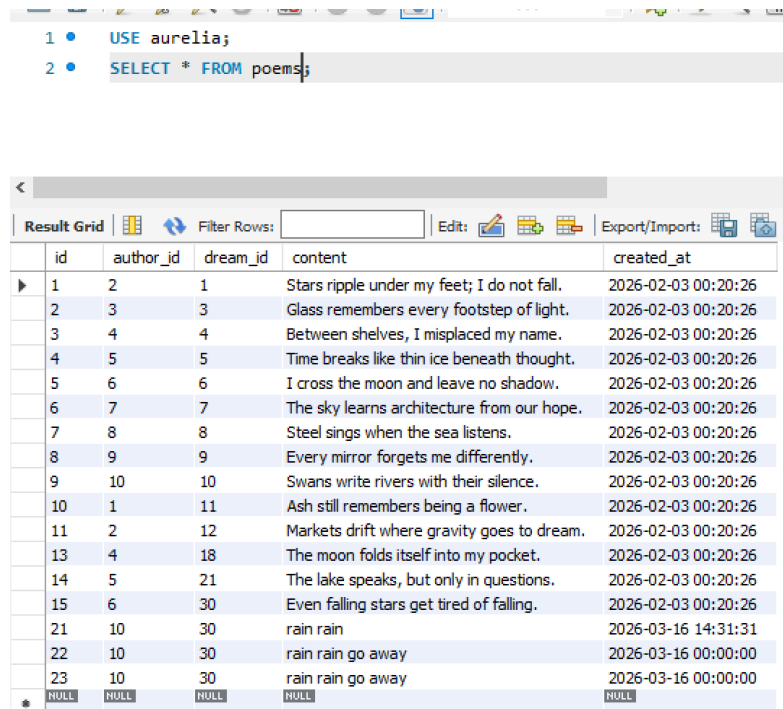

Client Screenshot:

Database Verification:

SELECT * FROM poems;

Database Screenshot:

The screenshot shows a database interface with two SQL queries entered in a text area:

1 • USE aurelia;
2 • SELECT * FROM poems;

Below the queries is a "Result Grid" displaying the results of the second query. The grid has columns for id, author_id, dream_id, content, and created_at. The data is as follows:

	id	author_id	dream_id	content	created_at
▶	1	2	1	Stars ripple under my feet; I do not fall.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	2	3	3	Glass remembers every footprint of light.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	3	4	4	Between shelves, I misplaced my name.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	4	5	5	Time breaks like thin ice beneath thought.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	5	6	6	I cross the moon and leave no shadow.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	6	7	7	The sky learns architecture from our hope.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	7	8	8	Steel sings when the sea listens.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	8	9	9	Every mirror forgets me differently.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	9	10	10	Swans write rivers with their silence.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	10	1	11	Ash still remembers being a flower.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	11	2	12	Markets drift where gravity goes to dream.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	13	4	18	The moon folds itself into my pocket.	2026-02-03 00:20:26
	14	5	21	The lake speaks, but only in questions.	2026-02-03 00:20:26

Test 2 – Update Record

An existing poem record was updated.

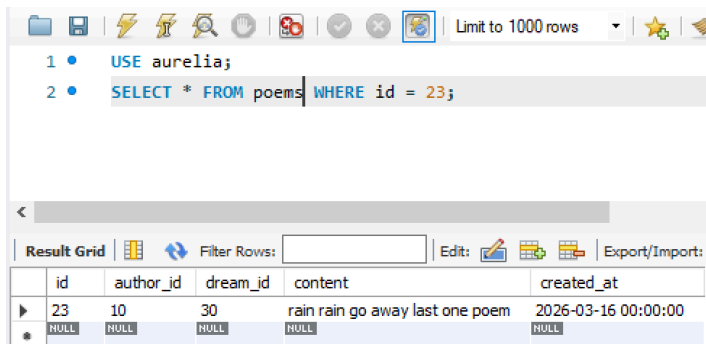

Client Screenshot:

Database Verification:

SELECT * FROM poems WHERE id = 23;

Database Screenshot:

Test 3 – Retrieve All Records

The client requested all poems records.

SELECT * FROM poems;

Database Screenshot:

The screenshot shows a database client interface. At the top, there is a toolbar with various icons for file operations, execution, and search. Below the toolbar, a SQL query is entered in a text area:

1 • USE aurelia;
2 • SELECT * FROM poems;

Below the query, the results are displayed in a table. The table has six columns: `id`, `author_id`, `dream_id`, `content`, and `created_at`. The results are as follows:

	id	author_id	dream_id	content	created_at
▶	1	2	1	Stars ripple under my feet; I do not fall.	2026-02-03 00:20:26

Test 4 – Retrieve Single Record

The client requested a specific poem by ID.

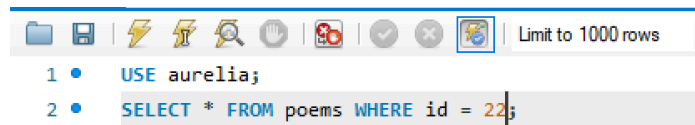

Client Screenshot:

Database Verification:

SELECT * FROM poems WHERE id = 22;

Database Screenshot:

A screenshot of a database client interface. At the top, there is a toolbar with various icons for file operations, execution, and search. Below the toolbar, a SQL command window displays two lines of code: '1 • USE aurelia;' and '2 • SELECT * FROM poems WHERE id = 22;'. The second line is currently selected, and a cursor is visible at the end of the statement.

1 • USE aurelia;
2 • SELECT * FROM poems WHERE id = 22;

A screenshot of a database client interface showing a result grid. The grid has five columns: 'id', 'author_id', 'dream_id', 'content', and 'created_at'. The first row contains the values 22, 10, 30, 'rain rain go away', and '2026-03-16 00:00:00'. Below this row, there is a row of five 'NULL' values, and a row starting with an asterisk (*). The interface includes a toolbar with icons for grid view, refresh, filter, and edit, along with a 'Filter Rows' input field and an 'Edit' button.

id	author_id	dream_id	content	created_at
22	10	30	rain rain go away	2026-03-16 00:00:00
NULL	NULL	NULL	NULL	NULL

Test 5 – Delete Record

A poem record was deleted through the client interface.

Client Screenshot:

Database Verification:

SELECT * FROM poems;

Database Screenshot:

1 • USE aurelia;
2 • SELECT * FROM poems;
